WISCONSIN MOTHERS LAUNCH WAR AGAINST ROUGE AND LIPSTICK

Movement Started in Milwaukee Rapidly Spreading Over the State

MADISON, Wis.—The mothers of Wisconsin children in the state of Wisconsin have opened a campaign against the rouge box and lip stick together with the peek-a-bee and low neck blouses worn by young school girls.

The inception of the movement came as a result of a protest by the Teachers' Street School Parent-Teachers association of Milwaukee. The evil has become so pronounced that the gathering was called and attended by 100 members. It approved the plan of the Congress of Mothers and the Parent-Teachers' association including this matter as one of the most important planks in the resolutions platform to be presented at the state conference on November 4 and 5.

Meantime the campaign has been opened in other sections of the state and school district officers and teachers are co-operating in the matter. The educational department of Milwaukee refers to the campaign as the "rouge war," and commends the Women's Organizations of the state for the interest which they are taking in the campaign. Even in the rural school districts it is declared that young girls come to school with their cheeks brightly rouged and their lips brightly carmined.

It is probable that the rouge war will be waged in all of the teacher's associations which will be handled in every county of the state during the fall and winter months.

RESULTS JUSTIFIED MISTAKES OF GRANT SAYS U. S. COLONEL

Learned by Early Errors How to End War to Advantage of United States

MADISON.—What it cost in lives, money and resources to educate General Grant is immaterial—the main fact is that he was educated to make possible the ending of the civil war to the best advantage for the United States, was the declaration of Colonel Arthur L. Conger of the U. S. army in an address before the annual meeting of the State Historical society Thursday.

The military manner in which General Grant handled the problems of the civil war were outlined by the speaker. Colonel Conger's experience in the European war in which he served for a considerable time at the American headquarters enabled him to speak with unusual interest on the generals of past wars.

The speaker defined generalship as the art of leading masses of men in campaigns and in battles and in taking up General Grant's career he began with Grant's exercising command of a brigade in the Civil war battle of Belmont. He said that Grant made practically every mistake that could be made in forming his troops for battle and sending them into battle. The next battle at Fort Donelson, said the speaker, showed clearly that General Grant had profited by his earlier mistakes, a fact that was noticeable throughout the war record of the famous general.

The speaker closed his address with an appeal for military preparedness, maintaining that in "our next war" we cannot afford to lose lives while we are gaining education in modern warfare.

The business meeting of the society was held Thursday afternoon. Curators elected for the term ending 1923 were: R. B. Anderson, C. Brown, Prof. W. A. Scott, Prof. N. Paxton, Madison; W. A. Tibbs, Fond du Lac; J. T. A. Lecher, Waukesha; R. Rev. S. G. Messmer, Milwaukee; Barton L. Parker, Green Bay; John P. Parkinson, Madison.

THEIR OWN METERS

La Crosse, Wis., Oct. 21, 1920. Editor of Tribune.

My Dear Sir: As we are having or had trouble with gas pressure, I will say I think the said gas and electric company should furnish meters to measure their gas and electric current, FREE, as well as grocers and meat shops furnish their own scales to do the weighing of what they have to sell us. Why not the Gas and Electric company. Or will the grocer and butcher soon want ALL of us to put in scales to weigh what we buy of them. I would be pleased to hear from others on this subject.

GEORGE S. NICHOLS, 1224 Vine St., La Crosse, Wis.

October 20, 1920.

La Crosse Tribune and Leader-Press, La Crosse, Wis.

Gentlemen: Last evening when I was in La

Crosse with the McCoy party to hear Colonel McCoy speak I bought your paper at the news stand at the Stoddard and read your editorial "Keep Way on the Boat."

Permit me to congratulate you on your happy intelligent handling of a situation that is developing and which but for sane editorials of this type and sane news items by the newspapers will doubtless prove solely as uncomfortable and possibly more disastrous in this country than the "war price period" which we have just gone through. More power to your pen and keep up the good work.

At my suggestion both the Sparta papers will copy this editorial giving you credit for it. I am today sending this clipping to the secretary of the Wisconsin State Shoe Retailers' association with the request that he do everything in his power to have some copied broadcast throughout the newspapers of Wisconsin. Really sane constructive editorials of this nature are what this country will need through the period of stress which is bound to come and if you have anything further along these lines in future copies I would personally appreciate it very much if you would call my special attention to same and will see that as much publicity is drawn to them as can be.

For some time I have been meaning to subscribe to your paper and last night as I happened to see your reporter in the lobby of the Stoddard I gave him my card that my name be entered for your subscription.

Very truly yours, W. W. CARD.

FEDERAL OFFICERS MAKE THIRD RAID ON WINONA HOMES

Prohibition Officials Visit City Without Knowledge of Police in Quick Raid

Two federal prohibition officers, armed with warrants, descended unexpectedly upon Winona Thursday and searched several private residences in the East End, it became known today. The government agents made their rounds in a taxi and left as quickly as they arrived, keeping even the police in the dark regarding the result of their activities.

The taxi driver, however, stated that the raids netted them one still and a jug of mash at least. He thought that they might have found liquor and destroyed it after taking samples. This, however, he could not say positively as the officers kept their identity and purposes unknown to him until they brought out the still, and even then did not divulge any information of the raids.

The police knew nothing of the affair until the federal officers had accomplished their purposes and then they declared today, knew only that the officers had paid a few visits to several East End homes.

The taxi driver stated the federal officers arrived at about 10 a. m. and hiring a taxi, instructed him to "drive to Chaffield street." At a number, which the driver said he paid no further attention to, they stopped and entered the house after allowing the residents to read a paper which they produced. They came out soon after and ordered him on to a different place, he said. Five places were visited, the driver stated, and only at the fifth, where he said they procured the still and the mash, did he learn who they were.

He declared that women followed the officers into the streets, shouting at them and mocking them, calling them names and displaying their contempt generally. The officers, he stated, worked calmly, however, seemingly unmindful of the clamor about them and impressing him as though "they were used to that sort of a thing." All of the places visited were on Chaffield and East Seventh and Eighth streets, the driver declared. The officers then instructed him to return downtown and left shortly after noon, having been in Winona a little more than two hours. Nothing further has been heard of them.

AT THE THEATERS TODAY
Rivoli—"Homespun Folks." Thos. H. Ince Special.
Majestic—"On With the Dance" with Mae Murray.
Riviera—"Bryant Washburn in 'Mrs. Temple's Telegram'."

Biyou—"Tom Mix in 'Three Gold Coins'."
Casino—"Hedda Nova in 'The Spitfire of Seville'."
Strand—"The Girl Who Dared."

RIVOLI
It is your last chance tonight to see "Homespun Folks," starring Lloyd Hughes, at the Rivoli. This story of real folks has been making a great hit with the patrons of this theater the past week and those that miss it will miss one of the best attractions of the year.

Like all big American successes it stands for clean romance and wholesome after-tastes. The audience will leave the theater feeling better for having seen the picture. It is a tribute to art and to Thomas H. Ince. Human interest fairly oozes out of the drama. The acting of Lydia Knott, as the mother, and Charles Malles, as the father, is superb, while young Lloyd Hughes exemplifies all that is best in young American manhood. The characterizations smack of real life.

MAJESTIC
"On With the Dance," which closes its engagement at the Majestic this evening, is a strangely thrilling romance of a Russian dance in America. A story of passions that veer into tragedy, and of human beings who love and struggle and finally win happiness. It's life among the four hundred of New York, teeming with interest and filled with suspense.

RIVIERA
Bryant Washburn in "Mrs. Temple's Telegram" is the attraction at this popular theater today. It is a screen comedy of jealous wives, innocent husbands, and a designing vamp. As an added star, there is an Italian manure artist who wears his heart on his sleeve and parades under the name of John Brown. This is the same famous farce that has amused stage patrons of two generations. It is the work of Frank Wyatt and William Morris and is a hilarious comedy pure and simple. Wanda Hawley plays opposite Mr. Washburn.

BIYOU
Capacity crowds have enjoyed Tom Mix in "Three Gold Coins" at the Biyou. Mr. Mix has produced a real thriller. He plays a dual role in this picture, that of the hero and the "bad man." As the hero he outwits a pair of old well thieves, who try to fleece the people of a western town out of their stock. As the bad man he attempts to loot the town with his bandits but is captured. A pretty love story runs through the picture. The cast includes Margaret Loomis and Frank Whitson.

CASINO
A special for today greets the patron of the Casino. Hedda Nova in the "Spitfire of Seville." It is a Mexican romance, that finds its way to American soil and then the trouble begins. Fights and thrills galore.

Nor a good laugh, which is obtainable in large chunks by an evening with "The Girl in the Limousine" at the La Crosse Theater. Monday, Oct. 25.

There was a young man, Oh! so lean, rode with "The Girl in the Limousine." His wife, who was fat, said, sir, just for that, on your money I'll now get a hen.

ST. JOSEPH RIDGE ROAD NEARLY DONE TO COUNTY'S LINE

Seven Miles of New Highway on Beautiful Scenic Ridge Completed this Year

Reports to the state highway commission show that some highly important projects will be completed in La Crosse this season. The county is at this time busily engaged in constructing a bituminous macadam road on State Trunk Highway 33, on St. Joseph's Ridge. The soil is clay and when wet it has been almost impassable. About seven miles, including some surfacing, has been completed this year. Of the twenty miles of state trunk highway 33 in La Crosse county only about three miles will remain unsurfaced at the close of the 1920 construction season. This three mile section will be finished in 1921.

The French Island bridge across the Rock river in La Crosse county has long been noted for its dangerous condition. The draw has not been opened for three years, because it was feared the structure would collapse. This bridge is being replaced by a modern steel structure, of a total length of 551 feet, including a 60-foot trestle span which can be raised to permit steamboats to run up as far as Onalaska.

UP AND DOWN STATE WITH POLITICIANS

Hon. Judge R. B. McCoy has served notice on John J. Blaine, that his speech charging that McCoy favored compulsory military training is a violation of the Universal Service Act.

When Blaine appeared at Platteville recently, Earl Y. Sangster of that city and several friends of McCoy personally hounded Blaine the following letter, signed by Judge McCoy:

"Dear Sir: Due to the fact that a paragraph which appeared in the press recently was an incorrect statement of my position on one question, I trust that I may be permitted to inform you that I am now and always have been unalterably opposed to any form of compulsory military training in time of peace."

Very sincerely, R. B. McCoy.

Charles Lee Bryson, correspondent for Hearst's Chicago American, expresses the opinion, based upon several days' investigation in the state, that the question of republican success in Wisconsin is only a question of the size of the republican majority.

"An amusing turn has been given to the campaign by the candidacy of Prof. Paul S. Reinisch of the University of Wisconsin, the regular democratic nominee against Senator Lenroot," says Mr. Bryson. "Prof. Reinisch was the American minister to China and is credited with wielding such powerful influence there that he brought China into the war on the side of the allies, just after the United States went in."

"When President Wilson permitted the Shantung deal to be put across, awarding China's province to Japan, it placed Minister Reinisch in a most embarrassing position. He resigned his post and came home."

"Yet here he is on the same ticket with Cox and Franklin Roosevelt, presumably to the Wilson league of nations, Shantung proviso and all."

"Democrats and socialists frankly expect Harding and Coolidge to carry Wisconsin by 75,000 as a minimum. Republicans expect their plurality to run anywhere from one hundred to two hundred thousand."

Leaders in the labor movement in Wisconsin are joining with various farmers' organizations to campaign for John J. Blaine for governor.

James Thompson for United States senator and the La Follette progressive unionists on the state ticket.

R. G. Knutson, La Crosse, himself an independent candidate for the state senate and an officer of the State Federation of Labor, is on the stump. Marcus Johnson, Dane county assemblyman and president of the Madison Federation of Labor, has issued a statement urging the election of Thompson and Blaine. It was announced at progressive headquarters here today that Harley Nickerson, head of the International Association of Machinists, with offices at Washington, D. C., is coming here for Thompson and Blaine. Nickerson is at Valdres in the evening. Mr. Morgan has many old friends at Valdres, it being near his old farm home and where he taught his first school while earning money to take a law course at the university.

GENERAL BIDDLE TO RETIRE FROM U. S. ARMY POST

Leaves the Service after Forty-three Years of Active Duty

WASHINGTON — Retirement of Brigadier General John Biddle, who commanded the American troops in England during the world war, at his own request on December 1, was announced today at the war department. On that date General Biddle will have completed forty-three years of active service and be eligible for retirement.

General Biddle, who is a native of Detroit, was graduated from West Point in 1881 and served during the Spanish-American war as a lieutenant colonel in the engineer corps.

At the time the United States entered the world war, General Biddle was superintendent of the Military Academy. He was assigned to command a regiment of engineers organized for special service in France and soon afterward was made a brigadier general of the regular army and later commissioned a major general in the National Army.

A period of service in France was followed by his return to the United States and his appointment as assistant chief of staff.

General Biddle is now in command of Camp Custer, Michigan.

SUCCESS DEPENDS ON COLOR OF THE SALESMAN'S HAIR

Personality is Half of the Game Declares Salesmanship Expert

CHICAGO.—Success in salesmanship depends partly on the color of the salesman's hair, George W. Hopkins, general sales manager of the Columbia Graphophone company of New York, told the Executives' club of Chicago.

"Send a black haired man south and a light haired man north if you want to get results," Mr. Hopkins advised.

"We are depending too much on modern advertising," he continued. "Advertising is only fifty per cent; the personality of the salesman is the other fifty per cent. A poor clerk behind the counter can destroy the best advertised product in the country."

Mistaken for Burglar But Police Investigate Reports of Trouble

CHICAGO.—The Rev. Frederick G. Ruff, pastor of the Memorial Methodist church and owner of an apartment building in Rogers' park, was shot and killed Saturday morning by Fred W. Sextro, one of his tenants.

Sextro, the manager of a coal company, told police he mistook the minister for a burglar. He was arrested, however, while police investigate reports of trouble between the tenants and the preacher. The Rev. Mr. Ruff was summoned before the council committee investigating rent profiteering several weeks ago on complaint of his tenants. Recently the tenants have posted signs bearing the words:

THIRTEEN INDICTED BY GRAND JURY IN BASEBALL INQUIRY

Previous Indictments Re-Voted and Three Additional Names are Added

CHICAGO.—Indictments against thirteen persons believed to have been implicated in the "throwing" of games in the 1919 world's series by Chicago American league players were returned on Friday by the special Cook county grand jury, which has been investigating the baseball scandal for more than a month. Further indictments are expected when the jury convenes again next week, state officials declared.

Indictments against ten of the men named on Friday previously had been voted, but were vetoed to overcome legal technicalities, while the other three—Abel Atwell, Hal Chase and William Burns—had only been unofficially mentioned in connection with the investigation.

Chase and Burns, former league players, and Atwell, once the feather-weight boxing champion, have been accused by witnesses as being three of the clique which "framed" the world's series and arranged to bribe Chicago White Sox players for sums said to range from $2,000 to $10,000 to try to lose games in the contests for the world's baseball championship.

According to testimony presented "at least several hundred thousand dollars" was bet and won on the world's series. Chase was the first man to suggest "throwing" the series, it was said, and called in the others to help him. Harry Long, a Chicagoan, told the jury he alone placed $27,000 in bets on Cincinnati for Sport Sullivan of Boston, and testimony has been received concerning many other large bets, it was said.

"Ball two," was the decision. Another effort by the hurler.
"Ball three," said the umpire. The pitcher saw the predicament, and made one master effort to save the day.

"Ball four," yelled the ump, "and the man's out."
"How come, I'm out?" inquired the earnest batter.
"Use reason to put you out, nigger. Don't you see dar's nowhere else to put you?" reasoned the umpire—Columbia State.

Obituary

HENRY GABEL
Henry Gabel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Gabel, was born in the town of Shelby on October 17, 1896. He passed away just one day before his birthday at his home where he was born. A card sent by his sister, Alma, from Milwaukee, congratulating him and wishing him many happy birthdays arrived on Monday too late for him to see. He attended the Shelby school, District No. 1, and was well liked.

Four years ago he suffered a paralytic stroke, which left him weak physically. Since then he at times has suffered from both heart and kidney troubles. Although ailing right along he worked until about six weeks ago and even then was not confined in bed more than a few days. On Saturday evening, October 18, he ate a hearty supper with the family and seemed in the best of spirits, chatting and talking with all. After supper he sat in the kitchen when suddenly he fell backward in his chair. The family thought he fainted, but one realizing that death had come. He passed away without a murmur in his mother's arms.

Besides his father and mother the young man is survived by six brothers, George, who is in Iowa and unable to come, Theodore, Fred, Emil, Edgar, Gottfried, Agnes and Mrs. Andrew Gott of Sioux Falls, South Dakota. He is also survived by four brothers and three sisters. Funeral will be held from the house at 2:30 p. m. Tuesday, the Rev. Henry Andreas officiating. Interment was made in Gabel's cemetery on Mormon Coulee road.

GOTTLIEB BEITZ
Gottlieb Beitz, 52, 1225 South Fifteenth street, died at the St. Francis hospital Friday night from a complication of diseases. He is survived by his widow and eight children: Roy, Henry, Albert, Leonard, Jerome, Gottfried, Agnes and Mrs. Andrew Gott of Sioux Falls, South Dakota. He is also survived by four brothers and three sisters. Funeral will be held from the house at 2:30 Thursday afternoon.

BEG YOUR PARDON

In its daily review of the state political situation the Tribune and Leader-Press recently printed a resume of a statement of the Forward Press Activities, Madison, which mentioned Rev. R. H. Clarke of this city, prohibition candidate for congress, as an "overseas man." Mr. Clarke requests a correction, saying that the statement was given out in Madison without his knowledge. He was chaplain at both Camp Taylor, Ky., and Camp Shelby, Miss., during the war, but never "got across." He is now chaplain of the American Legion post in La Crosse.

STATE TAKES FIVE PER CENT OF TAX FOR SALOONS HERE

Four Hundred Dollars to be Forwarded to Madison on Eighty Local Saloons

Along comes the state of Wisconsin rather unexpectedly and reaches into the La Crosse city treasury for $400 more.

The amount paid today is $400, representing five per cent of each of eighty saloon licenses granted here under the Mulberger act. This is the state's regular fee on class A permits. City Attorney Oscar J. Swennes ruled, and straightaway, City Treasurer Schweizer and Comptroller Fries prepared to forward the money to the state treasurer. The city of La Crosse now charges $100 for a saloon license, or one-half of the amount demanded before prohibition went into effect.

There are now 80 licensed saloons in the city, compared with 130 before the lid went on.

BALKAN PEASANTS LIVE IN POVERTY

Corn Bread and Goat Cheese With Onions is the Staple Diet of Poor

BELGRADE, Serbia.—To the American visitor, accustomed to the ordinary comforts of life, it is a constant source of wonderment how the peasants and poor of the Balkans are able to exist on the meagre food they have. Corn bread of poor quality, supplemented with goat's cheese or ordinary leek or onions, forms the diet of a large part of the village population. This slender regimen produces robust bodies, strong muscles and rosy cheeks. The old adage that bread is the staff of life finds its best proof here.

On the whole, the poor of the Balkan countries have an unusually hard lot in life. Their poverty is practically permanent. Their plight seems to excite little sympathy from those who are well off. There is a calloused indifference to the sufferings of the poor which strikes an American as almost heartless. In few if any of the Balkan states does the government make any provision for the cure of the poor. This work in the past has been left largely to foreign relief agencies and private charitable organizations.

No Eight-hour Day

The eight-hour working day so common in the United States is unknown in the rural districts of the Balkans. The peasant works from sunrise until after dark. He is so bent and weather scarred that he looks twice his age after thirty. In some cases he belongs to nomadic tribes and leads an existence unknown in the country districts of America. At night one often passes whole wagon loads of them on the road going from town to town. Every man is asleep on the top of his load and is not disturbed by thoughts of burglars or highwaymen.

The peasant removes his hat to every one better dressed than himself and gets his ox-cart off the road for every automobile that passes. He is a simple, honest, homeloving person, with much homely virtue. The peasant women have enormous families of children, about half of whom ever survive the rigors of child life in the extreme conditions that prevail in the Balkans.

The cottages of the peasants are crude structures with thatched roofs and mud walls. But they contrive to adorn them with attractive exteriors and take great pains to produce the utmost decorative effect. This embellishment frequently takes the form of a porch with a background bearing a border design whose contrasting colors and composition suggest the patterns used by the Navajos of the American Southwest in their blankets and carpets.

But while the exteriors of the homes

FIVE UNDEFEATED BIG TEN ELEVEN LINE UP FOR FRAY

Results Today of Great Importance in Determining Conference Champion

CHICAGO.—Football play, developing into mid-season form, exhibited by practically evenly matched Western conference eleven, today presented three Big Ten games, the results of which were awaited tensely in the middle west as of great importance in determining the ultimate conference champion.

Five undefeated teams were contestants, as follows:

Illinois and Michigan at Ann Arbor.

Ohio State and Wisconsin at Columbus.

Chicago and Iowa at Chicago.

Illinois, made confident by the display of ground gaining ability in its decisive defeat of Iowa last Saturday, today "kicked off" with a field of players trained in open and close attack.

Yost has seen Illinois in action and knows the plays his Wolverines will have to stop.

At Columbus, Ohio State offered its first strong line-up of the season. Ohio did not have its full strength in the Purdue game keeping Williamson, among others on the sidelines. Today in Bliss and Sunchcomb, the Buckeyes boasted two fast backs, while Williamson was credited impartially as a terrific line plunger. Workman, newly discovered quarterback, was expected to uncork some tremendous passes.

Workman has been considered one of the most accurate forward passers in the conference.

On the other hand the Wisconsin team, which showed extraordinary strength against Northwestern last week, entered a well-balanced outfit. The team which has given every indication of being the strongest eleven developed at Madison in recent years, was capable of a varied attack.

The Wisconsin forwards are watched particularly today as they held the Purple Hosiery last week, ripping great holes whenever they were needed.

At Stagg field, the real strength of Chicago and its chance of being a championship contender was the subject much in discussion before today's battle with Iowa. In Captain Jackson, McGuire, Crisler, and Cole, Coach Stagg had a quartet of dependable football men.

All the other conference teams had an off day today and continued practice for next week's contests.

LOCAL UTILITY BONDS FOUND BY WOMAN WHO IS DETAINED

A registered letter containing nine shares of Wisconsin-Minnesota Light and Power company, bonds said to be valued at $1,000 lost on the streets of Milwaukee on last Monday, today led to the detaining of a "mystery woman" at the matron's ward at central headquarters in Milwaukee following an attempt to convert the bonds into cash.

The letter, according to the story given out by police, was either dropped inside of the postoffice or on the streets by Mrs. Caroline Procter, 495 Milwaukee street.

CONFERENCE RULE THROWS OUT 1918 FOOTBALL SEASON

CHICAGO.—Football players of the Big Ten conference teams who played during the fall of 1918 were eligible for this year's play by a ruling of the conference board, it was announced today.

ROD and REEL

ASK YOUR GUIDE

Well, old man, you're ready to pack the duffle bag and hit the steel for the Great North Woods and you want a little straight-from-the-shoulder stuff on the question of guides. Take us a whole lot of the men of the North Woods are a fine bunch of good fellows and they sure put up with a lot of hardships in the first line trenches dodging anglers' gas shells on the subject of fishing. Most guides who handle the city clam on his first big time in the woods have more real fishing lore and knowledge tied up in their hats than they are given credit for. And a heap of this downright good fishing dope never reaches the surface because sometimes, Mr. C. C. don't mix in right, he sort of rubs the fur the wrong way. Get on a man-to-man basis right at the start and have your listening ear in good shape. Your fishing will be more successful and you'll have an all-around better time. Your guide, probably has spent the greater part of his life on the waters you will fish and he sure ought to be given credit for knowing something about fishing conditions on those waters. If you give him the glad hand, old timer, and treat him white, telling your share and "mixing in" right he'll open up and give you a line of fishing that will be remembered for many a day. And, just let a few of his tackle tips and fish facts soak in, they are nearly always good and you can use 'em any time.

While on a recent trip with Barney Wendt, the greatest little guide that ever brought a musky to gaff, I passed the buck to him in this fashion: "Barney," I said, "what is the worst bone pulled by the city fishermen in the high art of tossing the bait to the eager fishes?" Between turning the fish that was browsing in the pan and moving the coffee pot to a place over, Barney slipped this over the home plate: "Well, Honorable, there are a number of things that a fellow will do that makes it hard to fill the stringer: first, nearly everyone tries to cast too far; they have an idea that unless they make about 75 feet of line off the reel on a cast that said cast was a failure, while, as a matter of fact, as you well know, a cast of from 25 to 30 feet will get more fish than the longest casts, unless the water is very clear, and then throw it out not above 50 feet." And this has been checked up many times in watching Barney fish. He never throws his arm out of joint; he lets the wrist and the reel do most of the work, and I have seen him get strikes within ten feet of the boat and even right up alongside as the lure left the water.

So, you see, old timer, if you want an expert of real fishing facts, lay your cards on the table with your pal the guide, and play the game of the outdoors clean. He'll pay mighty well and start a friendship that will last for years.

"And another thing," said Barney, as he wiped the smoke out of his eyes. "Some of the spoons and spinners they bring up to this country are some size. They use them too large. I have always found a small spoon, say a No. 2 or 3, about the right size for most fishing. Of course you can use them up to No. 6 or 8 on a rough day, when the water is moving a bit, but the great big chunks of tin they try out on the musky sure must look funny to the old boys when they go by. It seems they think the larger the spoon the larger the fish, but I've caught 'em up to 40 pounds with a little fellow, and I stick to that kind because it gets the fish."

"Striking at the right time is another point," he said as we started work on the piping-hot grub, fit for a king, at least it tasted so after a day's steady work at casting. "With the plugs they don't strike soon enough, and with the natural bait they strike too soon. Unless a fish hooks itself by accident when he hits the artificial plug the majority of fishermen are not ready to strike at the right time. You got to strike 'em the minute they hit the plug or they throw it out. I think where the fall down comes is in not practicing the transfer of the rod from the right to the left hand. Just before the plug hits the water, the reel should be stopped and while the rod is being swung from the right to the left, begin the retrieve of the plug by a backward move of the rod. This takes up the slack at the start, gives your lure the right position and still you have enough space to swing the rod farther back to strike your fish quickly if you get a strike. While with the live minnows they never give the fish a chance to swallow the bait. The bass, pike, pickerel or wall-eye generally takes but a small hold on the live bait and striking at that time before he gets a chance to take it away for a short run. Just pull the bait out of his mouth. I say let 'em swallow it. They ought to at least have that pleasure anyway, then give a quick, sharp strike with a wrist movement, but quite a few of the boys seem to think they got to pump the fish clear out of the water. At least that's the way it looks to me when I see them give a long, swinging sweep of the arm to the strike."

ANCIENT RIVALS PLAY SCORELESS TIE ON GRIDIRON

Sparta-Tomah Football Clash Was Hard Fought Battle on Sparta Field

Sparta and Tomah High schools, ancient rivals on the football gridiron, played a scoreless tie on the Sparta field yesterday afternoon. The contest was hard fought throughout, neither team seeming to possess an advantage. Hard, smashing line plunges were used a great deal by both teams. The game was played before a large crowd of enthusiastic rooters who were anxious to see their Sparta outfit wipe out the stain of the defeat received at the hands of La Crosse two weeks ago. Many of the Tomah followers motored to Sparta for the game, and there were also some La Crosse fans among the spectators.

The game was very closely contested, most of the play taking place in the center of the field. Jefferson was the individual star for Sparta, while Finnelly loomed up brightest for the Tomahites.

GREG KNOCKS OUT GUNBOAT SMITH IN FIRST TWO MINUTES

SOUTH BEND, Ind.—Harry Greb of Pittsburgh, Pa., knocked out Gunboat Smith of Brooklyn last night after two minutes of fighting in the first round.

Although Smith outweighed Greb ten pounds and had a much longer reach than his adversary, he was clearly in no condition for a fight and from the sound of the gong it was evident Greb would make short work of the old timer's effort to essay a comeback in the ring.

Greb went after Gunboat with a vengeance, raining blow after blow on all parts of his body and finishing him with right and left jabs to the head, the left jab closing Smith's eye and the right landing on the chin for a knockout.

Smith was temporarily blinded, according to Dr. F. M. Bonino of Niles, Mich., who was called into the ring to attend the defeated man. Dr. Bonino said Greb hit Smith square on the eye, injuring the optic nerve and blinding him.
